Counsel For Parks Admits He Committed The Crime.

INSANITY THE PLEA, AND THEREFORE UNPUNISHABLE.

Parks Had Been a Fiend For Liquor Since a Boy.

THE VERDICT EXPECTED TO BE REACHED TODAY.

ALFRED ME, June 11.—The defense in the Kittery murder trial was begun this morning. Judge Samuel W. Emery of Portsmouth, counsel for Frank P. Parks, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary E. Tarlton, made in the opening argument an admission that no denial is made of the respondent's connection with the crime, but he said the plea of the defense is that the respondent was at the time of the murder mentally irresponsible for his acts. This condition of mental irresponsibility, the attorney averred was due to the fact that Parks is a victim of inherited alcoholism.

On many occasions he has met with serious accidents while under the influence of liquor; and after recovering from the condition of intoxication, he has been unable to recollect a single circumstance connected with the accident.

At times the respondent has suspicions that he has enemies, which suspicions may have had something to do with his acts. At the time of the murder Parks was intoxicated, and had been on a spree for many days.

Arthur Geddes of Portsmouth was first witness for the defense. He had been a schoolboy with Parks and the latter had drunk liquor at school when only a boy of eleven years of age.

Fred Locke of Portsmouth, another schoolboy with Parks, testified substantially the same. The murderer's mother was the next witness called. She testified that her grandmother Adams had been insane and could not be trusted by the family and had to be restrained. Her grandmother's brother, Washington Adams, was also insane and had to be confined and restrained with a straight jacket.

Mrs. Parks said that she had been the mother of nine children. Three had died from convulsions when very small. Three had been still-born. Three were living. All three of her sons were in the habit of drinking. Her husband drank excessively before and after Frank was begotten. She also drank more or less considerably while she was pregnant. Frank never did any work. Her husband had always supported and clothed him and had given him money with which to buy liquor.

In cross examination Mrs. Parks testified in detail about the insanity of her grandmother and the latter's brother. Frank, she said had always had fits up to a year ago. When he was in drink he acted crazy. When he had been any time without liquor he was very nervous.

The murderer's brother testified next. He told of Frank's drinking when he was a small boy attending school at Portsmouth. He would take off his clothes and sell them for money with which to buy liquor. He was wild eyed when in drink, would talk thick but would never stagger. Always walked straight. He had seen Frank at six o'clock in the morning the day the murder was committed. He left home, came back to dinner at 11:30. He had seen him again at 2:30 at the Kittery Junction station with Charles Trefethen. Did not see him again that day.

Charles Trefethen was the next witness. He had known Frank Parks intimately for four years. The Saturday night before the murder on Monday they had been drinking together. He had met Parks that Monday about quarter of one noon, at the overhead bridge. Parks had liquor with him then that they drank. They then went to Portsmouth and drank in a saloon on Market street. Parks had given a man named Johnson a ring to sell for him to get money for more liquor. Witness testified that he was drunk that he did not remember anything more that occurred. Trefethen said Parks could drink more liquor and "carry it" than any man he ever saw. He did not stagger.

On cross examination Trefethen said that one day last winter he had passed the Tarlton house with Parks but that no conversation was made about her age or her living alone.

Attorney General Haines asked the witness if it was not generally known just before the murder that Mrs. Tarlton had drawn some money.

This question was objected to by the counsel for the defense but the court allowed the witness to answer. He replied that he had not heard anything about her having money.

George Parks, father of the prisoner, was next called.

He testified that he was fifty seven years old and had been married in 1872. Other family matters were testified to, substantially as by Mrs. Parks.

He told about the drinking habits of the son and the family, testified that he had often given Frank money to buy liquor with. He asserted also that when Frank was drunk he acted like a crazy man and that when he had been without liquor for some time he was very nervous.

Witness had come home from his work about 5:30 the day of the murder. Frank was not at home. Soon after witness had reached home the officers came after Frank. A little while afterward Frank came home and he told him the officers had been there after him. He said nothing and went to bed. The officers came after him again about 8:30 and arrested him. He offered no resistance and the witness could not recall any conversation that was made about the crime.

This afternoon the defense put in one insanity expert, Dr. Hutchinson, of the Waterbury, Vermont, state insane asylum. He claimed that he examined Parks and claimed that he was not a dipsomaniac, but rather an insane drunkard. That closed the testimony for the defense. Then in rebuttal the state recalled Dr. Bancroft of the New Hampshire state asylum and he testified that he examined Parks and found no evidence of insanity and also stated that he heard Parks tell Dr. Sanborn of the Maine state asylum that he never had a fit in all his life.

Dr. Sanborn was called and he testified to having had long experience with insane persons, and examined Parks by the usual methods and found no evidence of insanity.

Jailer Anderson testified as to Parks' condition at the jail. He said he had been a model prisoner and had shown no sleeplessness or restlessness and had never asked for liquor.

This concluded the evidence. Tomorrow morning Judge Emery will make his argument for the defense, lasting about an hour and a half.

The judge cautioned the jury about discussing the case until it was finally given them and adjourned until eleven o'clock tomorrow morning.

THE CRUEL DROUTH.

RAMPING TIME

The fat faced moon looked down on me When I was a young boy. And said, "These are your days of glory—Uncle Sam's your joy. Treasure the hours of your youth—Lay up their sunshine and their truth, Their rosy buds and their rhyme, When you are old and skies all pall, With trembling lips you'll gladly call, 'For this, your ramping time.'"

The fat-faced moon was frank with me That was my time of joy; I had the sweetest liberty When I was a roguish boy.

So romp, my lad, when all is bright And the hours have an arrow flight, And the bells are sweet of chime, For some day when you toil with men, You'll wish that you were back again In the young ramping time.

The man who has to stay in the city all summer doesn't believe the beach is healthy.

I see that the dog officer in Biddeford has killed one hundred and thirty-five unlicensed curs this year. This never happens here. Somehow the dog owners have a way of coming to time with the fee when Officer Hodgkins gets after them.

When a man wins a lawsuit for a thousand dollars and has to pay his lawyer five hundred and give up about four hundred for a few other incidentals, he begins to wonder where the justice of the law comes in.

Are we to have any open-air band concerts this summer? Some provision ought to be made for a series. Other cities make them a feature during the warm weather. They are always popular and a great enjoyment.

Several Portsmouth people are intending to take in the great celebration in Charlestown, Mass., next Saturday, (Bunker Hill day.) There is a fine list of attractions, notably among them being the presence of the North Atlantic squadron. If you want to see the mammoth parade you will have to rise before dawn and go in on the four o'clock train, for the pageant starts early in the morning.

So Seabrook has a sensation. It has been quite a while since that town had anything to gossip about, but the latest affair promises to develop into a most profitable subject for grocery store and sewing circle discussion. Foggy.

A CHANCE FOR PORTSMOUTH'S VETERAN FIREMEN.

The popular Veterans Firemen's association in this city now has a chance to reap great credit.

The public spirited conduct of the exempt firemen of Paterson, N. J., who turned out with the old goose-neck engine the other day and saved many thousand tomato plants that were perishing from drought upon the farm of a fellow-member, has put into the minds of all the farmers of Bergen county that at last a way has been found to make the volunteer fire department useful between conflagrations.

At the next regular night meeting of the local veterans a resolution should be offered that the members drop all regular employment and give what are termed "irrigation frolics" on the lands of the farmers, which are almost burned up in the sun. At these affairs the firemen pump water from the nearest pond upon the thirsty cabbages and radishes, and when they have drenched everything that needs it, crullers and ginger pop are served to all hands by the grateful agriculturalist. Acres and acres of crops are saved by industrious firemen at a comparatively small expense, the only real outlay being the labor of the men.

HOUGH NOT BEING HUNTED VERY HARD.

A Dover man told a Herald reporter today that the excitement over the disappearance of Harry Hough has subsided there, and that the authorities and the public in general seem disposed to await the results of the examination of the two banks now in progress before making further quest for Hough.

It is generally believed in Dover that Hough is in hiding near the city. The authorities, however, are of the opinion that he has left the country and is now in South America.

NEWSBOYS ATTENTION!

A $5.00 Present For Every Hustler

The army of Herald newsboys who have for years shouted their favorite paper on the street, are to be rewarded by the management.

The live newsboy is the success of a newspaper and the Herald appreciates that its faithful corps of newsboys have done much toward bringing it to the front rank as a local paper and in order to show a proper appreciation of their efforts will present all the hustlers with a new $75.00 1899 bicycle.

The winners will be decided on June 25th.

Here is the plan—Every newsboy will be given a check when he purchases his papers showing the number he buys and when all checks are turned into the office on June 26th the two boys having the largest number will be presented with a wheel bearing the name "Herald." They are beauties and can now be seen at the Herald office.

The third largest will receive an elegant camera. The Herald will also make every boy entering the contest and who comes within half the number of the leader a liberal cash prize. Newsboys in any of the adjoining towns are eligible to enter the contest.

OTHER PAPERS' COMMENTS.

Now New Hampshire has a grave scandal about a clergyman and again are the charges of Governor Rollins. Fast day proclamation reinforced. The poor wicked Granite State!—Boston Traveler. Perhaps so, but it wouldn't take an eagle's eye to discover several dark spots on Massachusetts' own soul that ought to be sponged off.

It is understood that there is a widespread demand on the part of New Hampshire business men that there shall be reform as to bank supervision, and it would seem as if it were high time. And the necessity for this is not confined to New Hampshire, either.—Newburyport News. This is trite and true.

It is interesting, of course, to know that an Ohio man has just spoken after a silence of 15 years. But what did he say?—Boston Globe. He probably said, "I'd like an office."—Nashua Telegraph. No, he didn't. He said, "Give me a dozen fans and a drink."

WILLIE IS NAUGHTY AGAIN.

Willie Habley, not quite eight years old, has almost driven his folks to distraction by his habit of running away from home and losing himself for days and nights at a time. The police have taken him in hand repeatedly and tried to scare him into better behavior, but in vain.

Willie has just had another of his escapades. It has become apparent, from the stories that he tells, that the little fellow is not exactly right mentally, and to settle this point he will be examined this afternoon by Drs. Towle and Barry. Regardless of the physician's findings, he will probably be sent to some institution any way.

AT THE NAVY YARD.

The new master shipfitter (outside) reports for duty today. It will be interesting to see the "Resolute" in the dry dock.

The shipfitters have commenced work on the little gunboats.

Nine men from the Resolute will be transferred to Boston today.

Chief Yeomen Phillips, and Olmstead of the Raleigh have completed their duties.

Pay Inspector Cosby, U. S. N., made an examination of the accounts at the yard on Wednesday.

The new electrical gear in the boat shop will take the big cutters from the water to any part of the shop.

Paymaster's Clerk H. E. Minkler, U. S. N., who relieves Paymaster's Clerk Varrell in the general store, arrived at the yard on Tuesday.

A detachment of nine men left the Resolute this afternoon for Boston.

The electrical outfit is being removed from the Raleigh.

Pay Director Henry M. Denniston and Mrs. Denniston left at 2.21 for New York.

Naval Constructor Tawresy now rides a wheel.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Globe Grocery Co.

STRAWBERRIES ARE HIGH.

Strawberries have taken a sudden rise and now they are from 18 to 20 cents a basket. "This rise is due to the drought in Massachusetts, where the greater part of our berries are coming from. The outlook for the berry crop is very poor and the chances of a rise rather than a decrease in the price of the luxuries are very likely. The worst part of it all is the outlook for the New Hampshire berry crop in case the dry weather continues."

Singing on the March.

All the military authorities of Europe are now paying great attention to singing on the march. The French army has of late permitted its soldiers to sing while marching. A little book of soldiers' marching songs was published in London, with Gen. Wolseley's words printed big on the cover to the effect that men march better and arrive fresher when they sing than when they don't. Curiously enough, most of these songs are American, words and all.

Kind of Pipe to Smoke.

A soft clay pipe is the best. It gives a cool smoke, and the nicotine is easily and generally absorbed. Briar pipes and meerschaums are satisfactory for a while, but get clogged with tobacco oils in the bowl and become bitter. A hooked pipe—one with a curved stem—is the best shape. Ebony stems spoil the flavor of good tobacco. Nothing is better than real amber or bone. Celluloid is dangerous.

One thousand tons of soot settle monthly within the 118 square miles of London.

The Unfortunate Sufferers By Cyclones in the Northwest Remembered By a Generous Public.

A Touching Appeal From a Wisconsin Congressman Results in Large Relief Funds Being Raised—A Nebraska Town Completely Wiped Out of Existence and Many People Killed.

Omaha, Neb., June 14.—A tornado struck the town of Herman, in Washington County, and wiped the place out of existence. Herman is a place of about 300 inhabitants, in the extreme northern part of Washington County, and is on the line of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway. The storm was general all over the eastern part of Nebraska, and at Omaha a cloudburst did great damage. A conductor on the train from Sioux City passed through Herman not long after the storm and he says not a building is left standing in town. He counted twelve dead bodies lying in the streets. The fatalities will undoubtedly run up to a hundred if not higher.

A special train has left Blair, the County seat, ten miles distant, for the scene of the disaster carrying surgeons and supplies.

New Richmond Wis., June 14.—The district wrecked by the cyclone Monday night has been gone over and the ruins searched thoroughly. From the latest summing up of figures it is known positively that 516 people were killed and there are about fifty that are not accounted for, but may not have been killed.

An unusually large crowd of strangers was in town. They sought shelter wherever they could find it. More than fifty bodies were buried when the buildings took fire.

A number of these unfortunate were only injured, but being pinned under the wreckage, they were slowly roasted to death.

Twenty-six bodies were found in one cellar.

A traveling man just arrived was talking to a merchant at New Richmond when the storm burst. The merchant was carried away and killed and the traveling man was thrown through a window, receiving only a few scratches.

Other passengers say the track of the storm was half a mile wide and that the greatest loss of life was where the people went into the cellars.

Instead of being swept away from their foundations the frame buildings were lifted and then crushed down into the cellars, killing the refugees like rats.

The property loss will reach fully $2,000,000.

Milwaukee, June 14.—The following telegram was received from Congressman John J. Jenkins, from New Richmond, Wis., addressed to the Governor and Chamber of Commerce:

"The city wiped out by storm. Every business building and contents and over half the dwellings and contents total loss. Many hundred dwellings partly ruined. Over one hundred wounded. Forty dead bodies; many missing and ruins burned. Local people making heroic efforts and giving freely of what little they have left. With few exceptions no food or clothing. Not an article of goods, wares or merchandise left.

Must have immediate relief: will require aid for some time. Not enough article to bury the dead. Practical destitution prevails. Will you notify the public and ask them that aid be forwarded as soon as possible."

In response to this telegram which reached the tender spot in the heart of every citizen in Milwaukee, the rich and poor alike, President Cottrell, of the Chamber of Commerce immediately called a general meeting of all classes to provide a means of relief for those who lost all of their earthly possessions in the frightful storm. The meeting was largely attended, principally by representative business men and about $31,000 in cash was paid in to the relief fund which was immediately forwarded to Congressman Jenkins, at New Richmond for distribution. Ten thousand dollars of this fund was donated by the Faber Brewing Company. Fully four car loads of provisions of various kinds were also subscribed and the Wisconsin Central Railroad Company for its contribution took the goods to the stricken city by special train.

St. Louis Does Herself Proud.

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—The people here realizing by their sad experience three years ago, when the city was wrecked by a cyclone, what prompt assistance means, in such cases, have not waited to be called upon to assist those who have met a like fate at New Richmond, Wis. Contributions to the amount of $57,000 were gathered in inside of three hours and in less than five hours a draft for this amount was on its way to the stricken Wisconsin City. There will also be several car loads of merchandise sent at once.

Detroit Sends Relief.

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—A meeting was called here at which $15,000 in money was paid into a fund which was immediately forwarded to the relief committee in charge of the distribution of funds for that purpose in the Wisconsin cyclone district.

Chicago Responds Liberally.

Chicago, June 14.—A $42,000 draft has been sent from here to aid in providing the necessities of life for the cyclone sufferers at New Richmond, Wis. Four car loads of provisions and lumber have also been sent.

Will Send Cash and Goods.

Minneapolis, June 14.—This city and St. Paul together will send about $25,000 in money besides several carloads of goods to the cyclone sufferers.

The New Orleans Tophenny.

Washington, June 14.—Naval Constructor Bowles has made a report, in which he says that the cruiser New Orleans is tophenny. This opinion was reached after tests conducted at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The defect is structural, and in consequence will be found also in the New Orleans's sister ship, the Albany, now nearing completion at the Armstrong Shipyard, at Newcastle on Tyne, England. Whether the defect can be remedied has not been decided.

The two vessels will be tophenny only when not carrying any supplies or with a greatly reduced cargo of stores. The New Orleans went through the naval campaign in Cuban waters without a hitch and nobody suspected she was inclined to turn turtle. So long as the two ships have plenty of coal and other supplies on board there will not be the slightest danger of their capsizing, naval authorities say, and no test is felt that the Albany, on completion, will not be able to cross the Atlantic with perfect safety. She must, however, be well loaded to prevent any possibility of trouble. The naval officials admit that both vessels are so long that it will not be expedient to make them any longer, and thus cause a more equal distribution of weight, as was done in the case of the gunboats Castine and Machias.

Bloody Fight in a Kitchen.

Paris, Tex., June 14.—Patrick Barry and George Norton, waiter and cook, respectively, at a restaurant here, had a bloody encounter in the kitchen of the restaurant. Barry seized a butcher-knife from the meat block and hurled it at his antagonist. The knife grazed his face and stuck in the wall. Norton fired a large revolver and knocked Barry down. Barry arrested a second butcher-knife and he stabbed Norton in the abdomen. Norton threw down the cleaver, wrested the knife from Barry, chopped his arm half off and hacked him on the head. Barry bled to death.

Explosion in Canning Factory.

Muncie, Ind., June 14.—The heavy cast-iron top of a cooker at the Muncie canning factory blew off in an explosion, tearing away about 20 square feet of roof from the building. At the time of the explosion David Kidnocker was working the lid on and was frightfully injured. How he escaped is miraculous. Two other men were knocked down, and several girls in the factory were panic-stricken when the explosion occurred. There were 100 employees in the factory at the time.

An Ugly Fight Is On.

Anderson, Ind., June 14.—The Indiana Spiritualists' Annual State Lye-corn meeting was held at Camp Chesterted. The attendance was large. The remains of Mrs. Vonderheide, of Cincinnati, are being held in her cottage on the grounds. She died on May 23. Officers of the State Lye-corn will call the attention of the State Board of Health to the fact that the Lye-corn is being used in the State cap camp, officers in refusing to permit burial on her lot in the grounds, according to her last wish. An ugly fight is on.

Ben Whitecotton's Fury.

Monroe City, Mo., June 14.—Benjamin Whitecotton began to smash his household goods, and when the work of demolition suited him he turned on his family and threatened to murder them. In their flight they ran to the home of C. C. Lewis, a distance of one-half mile, for protection. Mr. Lewis then roused some neighbors and went to the Whitecotton home, where they cared for the maniac all morning. He has been taken to an asylum.

Maj. Becker Removed.

Butte, Mont., June 14.—A private telegram from Washington, D. C., states that Maj. Becker, editor of the Billings Gazette, has been removed as agent of the Crow Indians. He had been requested to resign, but refused to do so. John E. Edwards has been appointed in his place. Charges of various kinds had been made against Maj. Becker, and an inspector was sent from Washington to investigate.

Dreaded of Snakes.

Logansport, Ind., June 14.—While dreaming that he was in a den of large snakes Jesse Cripe, aged 11 years, of Florida, Ind., arose in his sleep and jumped out of a second-story window, alighting on his back on the ground below. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into the house, where he soon recovered from his unusual experience. Not a bone was broken by the fall.

Senator Fairbanks Busy.

Tacoma, Wash., June 14.—Senator Fairbanks is here investigating lumber and coal interests preparatory to the August meeting of the Anglo-American Commission. He will cross White Pass to the British coast homes and while there will hold a reunion with former classmates of the Ohio Wesleyan University, who proposes his nomination for President in 1904.

Dental From Professor Haupt.

Washington, June 14.—A communication from Prof. Haupt of Philadelphia a member of the Inter-oceanic Canal Commission, concerning the remarks attributed to him criticising the appointment of the commission, was received by the President. It is understood that Prof. Haupt denies that he was correctly quoted.

The Yukon Developments.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—In a report to the Department of State Consul McCook, at Dawson City, says: "A conservative estimate of the gold output from the Yukon territory this year is $20,000,000. Next year I would not be surprised to find the output double that amount."

Controlled Robbers Caught.

Peoria, Ill., June 14.—Deputy United States Marshal Thipp arrested Felix Richards, aged 14; Henry Averill, 12, and Mike Aszempak, 11, charged with robbing the postoffice at Peru, Ill. The boys confessed, and will be tried at Chicago.

His Clothing Has Been Found.

Dallas, Texas, June 14.—C. C. Barnard, of Chicago, who had a large sum of money on his person, is missing. His clothing has been found. Everything points to murder.

A FELLOW FEELING.

Makes Portsmouth People as Wounded as Elsewhere.

A fellow feeling prompts it. We at home trouble of our own. We appreciate assistance. Relief from this he promotes gratitude. Gratitude promotes gratitude. Publicity promotes gratitude. A man with a bad back. The kind that aches all day and doesn't cease at night. Is a grateful man when his back is cured.

He wants to tell his friends about it. Let them know relief can be had. Lots of fellow feeling in Portsmouth. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured so many backs. Read what this Portsmouth citizen says:

Mr. A. P. Blake, of 33 High street, says: "I had a distressing pain in my back, dizziness and headache and an annoying urinary difficulty. I went to the Philbrick pharmacy and got Doan's Kidney Pills for it and they gave me great relief. I had an accident which injured my spine and my physician tells me it is incurable. Consequently I cannot hope for a permanent cure, but I will say this, by taking half a box of Doan's Kidney Pills I was relieved of my backache and the urinary difficulty. I gave the balance of the box to my son, who was troubled with kidney complaint also. They did him so much good that he went and got more and they cured him. I can, without any hesitancy, recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and urinary trouble. I consider them a valuable medicine and you are at liberty to refer to me as endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Johnny the Swimmer.

Now Johnny cannot read or write, and his knowledge of English is limited, but he is not without education. He is a Kanaka gentleman, who lives in Nawiliwili, Lihue, Kauai, Hawaii, and his name is really Kukulakui, but Johnny is simpler. Johnny used to steal ducks. His method was to dive under them and snatch them under water by the legs, afterward stuffing them "corpos delicti" into a bag he had hidden on shore. Now he has reformed and earns his living sometimes as a guide, sometimes as a lobster-catcher. In diving after lobsters Johnny will swim into caves that do not show above water at all and stay there for half an hour or so, until his companions are sure he's dead, when he'll come diving out, plopping! showing all his white teeth in a merry grin. Johnny will dive for pennies or tiny silver coins to any depth—but that is done in other parts of the world.

Cause for Retirement.

"What's the matter with Holland? I hear he's laid up." "Yes, he bought his wife a chafing dish a couple of weeks ago." "But surely that isn't responsible for his illness? Why that fellow can eat anything." "Oh, it wasn't anything that he ate. She hit him over the head with it."

Depressed.

"I am told," remarked Miss Cayenne, "that you said some very clever things last evening." "Yes," replied Willie Washington; "it is very discouraging." "What is?" "The surprised manner in which everybody is talking about it."

Resentment.

"I don't mind these new reform ideas of the emperor," said Li Hung Chang pensively, "but—" "You resent the loss of your yellow jacket and peacock feathers?" "I could go without them. I don't want any embellishments. This effort to decorate me with a bell punch and a cash register is what arouses my resentment."

Consolation for an Injury.

Flossie (weeping)—I am so disappointed in him. I am sure he was tipsy last night. He threatened to kiss me. May—Well, there's no knowing what men won't do when they are intoxicated.

His Little Scheme.

Soaker—I say, old chap, why in thunder did you bring me into this ice cream parlor—to drink soda water? Round—The lady at the next table knows me by sight, and corresponds with my wife's mother.

No Money Invested.

"Was his house built on sand?" "Well, yes. Sand and nerve. He didn't even own the lot."

NEGROES LYNCHED.

Much Excitement Caused at Dunellon, Florida.

MOBBED BY THEIR OWN RACE

Victims Were Accused of Killing Another Negro Who Recently Killed Marshal Paine.

Nine Others Rescued From the Infuriated Mob By Sheriff Nugent and an Armed posse—Sheriff Thinks the Trouble Is Over But Will Hold His Posse in Readiness.

Ocala, Fla., June 14.—Much excitement was caused here over the reports of race trouble at Dunellon, thirty miles southwest of here, the centre of the phosphate mining region. Sheriff Nugent and a posse of about fifty men went to Dunellon and found the scene of trouble. The trouble was caused by the negroes lynching two negroes whom they accused of killing another negro, who, it is said, killed City Marshal Paine last month. On Saturday last the negro accused of the Marshal's murder was caught and brought to town. On Saturday night he was "missed," and it was rumored among the negroes that the whites had kidnaped him to take him to the river and "lose" him—in other words, drown him.

This excited the negroes, and in a short time a mob of twenty or thirty was on the streets threatening vengeance to these negroes and the whites. On Sunday evening the laborers of the Dunellon phosphate mine heard of it and at once organized to meet out similar justice to the duped, and they came up to Dunellon and joined the gang there. They succeeded in hanging two of the men, and were only prevented from lynching nine others by the appearance of Sheriff Nugent and an armed posse, who went down on a special train from Ocala. The nine men released were escorted to a place of safety and the negro rioters dispersed, reports from there say matters are quieting down. The Sheriff thinks the trouble is over, but will hold himself and posse in readiness to answer any call.

Race Troubles in Florida.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 14.—Four telegrams have been received at the executive office from the mayor of Dunellon, a small mining town near Ocala, Fla., asking that troops be sent there at once. The negroes were reported to be armed and in possession of the town. Governor Bloxham is in east Florida on a vacation, and Private Secretary Lang, being unable to ascertain the cause of the trouble, did not order out the militia.

PREPARING FOR TROUBLE

Police Think There Will Be a Lively Time in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 14.—The police are ready for a battle with the strikers, and expect that there will be much more trouble before the fight between the street car magnates and their employees is over.

"We have about 200 men, mostly imported, to run our cars. All our former employees were discharged Monday at 7 a. m. The company has not received from its position one inch and we shall continue our efforts to operate cars. We will not try to run cars at night for the present however, for obvious reasons."

Following this announcement made by the general superintendent came an imperative order from the superintendent of Police to arrest every striker or sympathizer who boarded the cars.

Women are playing a very prominent part in the warfare, and the enthusiasm which they have displayed for the cause of the men has created much surprise.

Not only are the wives and female relatives of the strikers thoroughly aroused, but women of wealth and fashion have mingled with the crowd and endeavored to induce the new conductors and motormen to leave their jobs. In many cases they have given money out of their own pockets to induce them to do so.

Riot in Buffalo; Three Shot.

Buffalo, June 14.—Between thirty and forty steelworkers and freight handlers, climbed aboard the whaleback steamer "Mather," which was lying at the Minnesota iron docks, and opened fire on a gang of about thirty iron ore handlers who were working in the hold of the vessel. Between 150 and 200 shots were fired. John Malvey, 30 years old, was shot in the back and is not expected to recover; Joseph Marek was shot in the shoulder, and Mike Smith received a bullet in the right shoulder. The injuries of the two latter men are not serious.

HARD BATTLE WON.

Hottest Fighting of the Philippine Campaign.

NATIVES FOUGHT BRAVELY.

Report Reaches Washington That General Luna, Aguinaldo's Chief Rival Has Been Assassinated By His Order.

The Administration Has Determined to Give General Otis a Larger Army in the Philippines—Fighting Force to Be Increased to Thirty-Five Thousand Men—The Order Is Issued.

Manila, June 14.—The fighting at Las Pinas continued hotly all day long. Gen. Lawton called out the whole force of 3,000 men and at 5 o'clock he was able to push the insurgents back only 500 yards, to the Zapote River, where they are entrenched. The plucky insurgents resisted desperately and aggressively. They attempted to turn the left flank of the American troops. The American loss is conservatively estimated at sixty.

Washington, June 14.—The following cablegram from General Otis was received at the War Department.

Lawton's troops had severe engagement with enemy in strong entrenched positions at crossing Zapote River, near Bacoar, Cavite province; have driven the enemy with heavy loss. Our casualties sum thirty.

Natives scattered and in retreat. Doubtful if they make further stand. (Signed), OTIS.

Luna Assassinated.

Washington, June 14.—The report has reached here that General Antonio Luna, one of the bitterest foes of the Americans in the Philippines, has been assassinated by orders of General Aguinaldo, the Filipino leader.

Luna has recently found himself in opposition to his chief's views and has not only disobeyed orders, but once stopped Aguinaldo's peace commission while on their way to Manila to treat with the Americans. Aguinaldo ordered his death and his orders were carried out by some of his fanatical followers.

The report of his assassination caused great excitement among the Filipinos in Manila.

Washington, June 14.—Gen. Otis is to have an army in the Philippines of 35,000 men, instead of 30,000, as at first proposed and an order has been issued increasing the number of men in each infantry company in the Philippines. Additional regular troops are to be despatched to Manila as soon as transports arrive at San Francisco.

The order issued provides that each infantry company and cavalry troop shall have 125 men. Each infantry company now has 112 men and each troop of cavalry 100 men. By this means and with the increase of the army by 3,100 men, secured through a recent decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury, it is intended to give Gen. Otis the 30,000 regular troops he wants. This number does not include signal corps, engineer and hospital corps detachments. Under the decision of the Comptroller, the enlisted strength of the regular army has been increased from 65,000 to 68,100. The Comptroller held that the hospital corps of the army, consisting of 2,600 men, and 500 men allowed for a recruiting reserve, were not included in the 65,000 men authorized by the reorganization law.

As soon as the regiments have been recruited to their full strength of 1,536 men, or 128 for each company, the War Department will set about executing plans for sending 5,000 additional men to Gen. Otis, thus increasing his fighting force to 35,000. These plans have been considered and have been practically outlined, but the details are not obtainable.

A general order has been issued by the War Department assigning more regular troops to the Philippines. This contains the first direct admission that the Government has decided to reinforce Gen. Otis's command by regular troops instead of volunteers.

Constable "hot" Them Too.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 14.—Constable Hottelien, of Newton, Sussex County, had a desperate fight for his life on a lonely mountain road. The constable was pursuing James Campbell, of Newton, accused of beating his wife and threatening to kill her. He overtook Campbell and his brother, Jason, near the State line after a twenty-mile chase. When Hottelien undertook to place handcuffs on the men they seized him, beat him about the head and checked him in a horrible manner. Hottelien got one hand free, grasped his revolver and, lying on his back, fired two shots into James Campbell's body. Jason was also hit twice. The constable brought both to life. It is thought that James will die.

Reports from Manila state that the Filipino congress was dispersed by Aguinaldo, but this is clearly incorrect. It was the American volunteers that did the dispersing.

Even the fireworks business shows signs of expansion this year. But the squeaky-voiced "anti-imperialists" will approve nothing more pretensions than a little two-cent pinwheel.

According to Havana reports, the last address issued by Gen. Gomez has fallen flat. The Cubans evidently feel that the general has used his manifesto machine several times too often.

America has gold to sell as well as other things, and that is why modest amounts of the yellow metal are being sent to Europe. The gold now in this country belongs here, and when it goes abroad it will be on terms that means a profit to its American owners.

Lieut.-Gov. Worthington of Kentucky, has served as acting governor for two weeks, and during that period he has pardoned thirty-two convicts. His idea seems to be that when a fellow has any authority the thing to do is to give it a little exercise.

Geologists have discovered in Wyoming the fossil remains of an animal which, when alive, must have weighed 40,000 pounds. Populist research may yet show that this creature was the great grandpapa of the present octopus known as the "money demon."

Applicants for enlistment in the regular army nowadays are almost invariably anxious to be assured they will be sent to the Philippines. The report that the government is having trouble in getting men to enroll for service in those islands is simply a new style of summer lie.

Word has gone out to the democrats of Maryland that no man who is not an obedient and loyal follower of ex-Senator Gorman will be regarded as eligible to the party nomination for governor of that state. The Gorman boom for the presidency is evidently in the saddle, and the little fellows must keep off the track.

It is gratifying to note that our brave soldiers in Luzon are receiving the best of service from the commissary department. Their work is not only dangerous in the face of the half savage enemy, but is most exhausting in the tropical climate. This branch of military service is the one most subject to criticism as it is most exposed to criticism.

But, despite the distance and difficulties of transportation, the war department can congratulate itself upon being able to serve a good dinner even to the men actually on the fighting line.

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even get up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected soon to die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Globe Grocery Co's drug stores every bottle guaranteed.

REBELS RETREAT.

MANILA, June 14, 4:40 P. M.—The Filipinos retreated several miles southward after yesterday's engagement to the strongly fortified town of Imus.

The shelling of the American warships drove the rebels from Bacoor and the Americans now control several more miles of coast.

General Lawton with his staff and a troop of the Fourth cavalry started to reconnoiter the insurgent position and rode five miles along the coast to Bacoor without finding the enemy. They found the town full of white flags, but there were no soldiers there.

The women and children, who had fled to the woods during the bombardment, were camping in the ruins of their homes. The shells had almost knocked the town to pieces. The big church was wrecked and many buildings were in ruins. Even the trees were torn and splintered as by a cyclone. Several hundred women and children came through the American lines for protection and the road to Bacoor was covered all day long with processions of them on foot and in carts, driving animals and carrying goods on their heads.

The appearance of the battlefield testifies to the fierceness of yesterday's fighting. The trees along the river bank are almost cut down by bullets. The American officers estimate the loss of the insurgents at 100 killed and 300 wounded during the engagement. The next battle will be fought at Imus. The American troops will soon control the coast to Cavite.

Shortly after midnight the convention adjourned to tomorrow morning, without having accomplished the first and most important piece of work cut out for them, namely, the selection of a candidate for supreme court judge. The fight appears to have narrowed down to Judge Kennedy of Allegheny and Judge Yerkes of Bucks, unless a compromise is effected.

ITS "PUBLIC LIBRARY."

How One Big Railroad Company Aids in the Education of its Patrons.

The extent to which the great railroad systems of the United States invoke the aid of printer's ink in their laudable ambition to develop passenger business is something that rather astonishes the foreign transportation manager. Take the Boston and Maine Railroad for instance, which is the most conspicuous in the country for effective advertising. The summer publications of that railroad now number no fewer than 16 different volumes, all but one of them illustrated, and making themselves a veritable library of railroad literature. They cover in almost minute detail every one of the various "sections" reached by the Boston and Maine and its connections. No one need be at a loss to secure any desired information as to the various mountain, seashore, lake or country resorts or the fishing or shooting regions of the territory. It takes time and skill to accurately collate all these essential facts and statistics, and it costs lots of money besides; but the educational and artistic result is something that the company may well feel proud of.

The latest addition to the Boston and Maine's "Picturesque New England" library is "The Valley of the Connecticut and Northern Vermont," descriptive of the wonderful summer region lying along the beautiful valley of the Connecticut river and continuing to Lake Champlain and Lake Memphremagog in the north.

A copy of this book will be sent by the passenger department of the Boston and Maine Railroad, on receipt of two cents in stamps; as will also the indispensable "Summer Resorts and Tours," and the other descriptive publications (2 cents in stamps for each book), "All Along Shore," "Among the Mountains," "Lakes and Streams," "Southeast New Hampshire," "Merrimack and Valley," "Central Massachusetts," "Southwest New Hampshire," "Lake Umbagog," "The Monadnock Region," "Lake Memphremagog and About There" and "Fishing and Hunting."

Six cents in stamps will procure a copy of either "New England Lakes," "Rivers of New England" or "Mountains of New England," magnificent new portfolios of half-tone reproductions of original photographs just issued by the Boston and Maine Passenger Department. These are veritable editions de luxe in the way of railroad literature.

MURDERERS CONDEMNED.

HEINOUS CRIME TO BE EXPLOITED ON THE GALLIOWS IN TEXAS.

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 14.—Three Texans have been condemned to death by hanging by the Criminal Court of Appeals. They are Jim Garlington, alias Jim Garlington, of this city; Tom Wright, of Dublin, Rev. G. E. Morrissey, of Paulsboro City. Garlington is one of the five men who attempted to hold up a Santa Fe passenger train near Brownsville last and as a result, Engineer Williams and Fireman Whitaker were both shot and killed and their bodies kicked off the engine.

Wright brutally murdered Constable John Adams, of Erath County, by holding him with one hand while with the other he riddled him. The crime of the three men was the most heinous of them all. He deliberately set about to put his wife out of the way, in order that he might be free to marry a young woman at Topeka, Kan. One Sunday morning he placed poison in an apple, which his wife ate just prior to her brutal husband going to church to occupy the pulpit. When he returned home she was dead.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER IN 7 MINUTES.

HILLSBORO, N. M., June 14.—Oliver Lee and James Gahland were acquitted of the murder of Henry Fountain, the son of Col. A. Fountain. The jury was out but seven minutes.

SOUTHERN FIRE FIGHTERS.

THE SAVANNAH FIRE DEPARTMENT HAS UNDERGONE MANY CHANGES OF LATE.

Old citizens are commenting on the change the Savannah Fire Department has undergone since the ante-bellum days. The recent fires have given rise to many recollections of former methods of checking flames.

The eyes of one man, who was posted in a glass house in the City Exchange dome, constituted the alarm system. He was a sort of sentinel, and while keeping watch over the city cried out the hours and whether things were well or no. There are a few members of the police force to-day who served in the old glass house and recall the days when fire alarms were sounded by ringing the old bell.

Hand pumps formed the apparatus to drive water, and the effective work they did is well remembered. All firemen before the war were volunteers and with the exception of the chiefs of divisions, were composed entirely of colored men. They were strong, hardy, and to get to a fire was a sort of pastime which was thoroughly enjoyed by them. While working the pumps they would strike up a tune, keeping time with the movements of the pump handle and ringing out their song in such harmony and fullness as to catch even the ear of the critic. Then, too, there was fun for the negroes getting to their respective station houses. It was a standing rule that the first man to place his hand on the lock at the station received a dollar, and all were wild to earn it. It was as much an honor as a gain—a sort of trophy held until the next fire. The station houses were built of brick and located in the squares at different parts of the city.

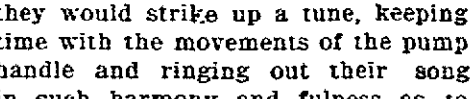

AROUND THE WORLD ON HIS APPLE CROP.

Robert Kenny of Dickinson county, Kan., will take a trip around the world as a result of his big apple crop last year. He sold about 10,000 bushels, receiving over $5,000 for them.

CLIMBERS.

"Did you climb the Alps?" asked the young woman.

"No," answered Mrs. Cumrox, "we meant to. But we couldn't get accommodations anywhere except on the second floor of a hotel that had no elevator. So we went right away."

MEN CURED FREE.

A most successful remedy has been found for sexual weakness such as impotency, varicocele, shrunken organs, nervous debility, lost manhood, night emissions, premature discharge and all other results of self abuse or excess. It cures any case of the difficulty, never fails to restore the organs to full natural strength and vigor. The Doctor who made this wonderful discovery wants to let every man know about it. He will therefore send the receipt giving the various ingredients to be used so that all men at a trifling expense can cure themselves. He sends the receipt free, and all the reader need do is to send his name and address to L. W. Knapp, M. D., 1595 Hull Bldg., Detroit, Mich., requesting the free receipt as reported in this paper. It is a generous offer, and all men ought to be glad to have such an opportunity.

YEARS AFTER.

"Mattie, you little brown thing, what are you doing? Dreaming, I declare! Did you know, child, you have just 15 minutes to dress in before the dinner-bell rings?"

She had donned her prettiest costume and brightest smiles in honor of the new arrival, Guy Edgerton.

How my beautiful sister would have laughed could she have known that this same new arrival was the hero of my dreams. I will tell you how he came to perform so important a part in them.

Five years ago, when it lacked but two weeks of my sister's 18th birthday, my mother died.

We mourned her loss deeply; but Kate, for her oath's sake, given in the shape of enameled invitation cards, would not give up her usual party.

"Oh, Kate," I pleaded, "please don't have it!"

"You don't know what you are saying, child. I cannot detract after the invitations are issued, and father thinks it is best we should have it."

And so it ended. The party came off, I protesting I would not appear in the drawing-room; and I did not. But, sitting alone on the balcony, watched the forms flit to and fro in the brilliant drawing-room.

I was crying bitterly, when a firm step sounded beside me, and, looking up, I met the gaze of Guy Edgerton, my sister Kate's most ardent admirer.

"Why do you not join the company, Miss Howard?"

He bent forward and looked in my face. "What, in tears, little one!" At this I cried harder than ever.

"Won't you tell me what grieves you?"

At this I told him all. How it seemed to me sacrilegious so to treat my mother's memory.

He said nothing, only smoothed my hair tenderly until I ceased weeping.

As I looked up he said:

"Little Mattie, I am going away to-morrow; going to Europe. Will you kiss me good-by?"

I was only 15, so I raised my head and kissed him.

"Thank you, little one; and when I come back will you give me a kiss of welcome? I have no mother, no sister, Mattie. No one to welcome me back. Will you?"

"Yes, sir," I sobbed.

He said "Thank you" again, and then left me.

For five long years I had heard nothing from him; and now he had returned.

This is what I had been dreaming of this pleasant morning.

The dinner-bell roused me from my reverie, and hastily donning my prettiest blue muslin I sought the dining-room.

As I entered, my father presented me to Mr. Edgerton.

"My little daughter, Mattie."

"I think we are already acquainted," he said, and then passed on.

For two weeks every young lady at the house, save myself, tried their fascinations upon him, but to no avail.

"What a pity," sighed Flo Archer, "that his up-town mansion and huge bank stock have no mistress!"

But her sighs were in vain. The last morning of Mr. Edgerton's stay, the subject of conversation turned upon kissing. Mr. Edgerton, sitting by, did not join in the conversation. Pretty Flo Archer saucily demanded Mr. Edgerton's opinion.

"Now, really, Mr. Edgerton, don't you like to attend forfeit parties?"

"No, Miss Archer, I do not. I think a kiss obtained by compulsion no kiss at all."

"Why, Mr. Edgerton! You shall do penance for that speech."

"You are to tell what lady you kissed last."

"That would not do, as the lady is present, and would be the sufferer rather than myself."

"Well, then, you are to tell how long it is since you kissed her."

"Will you promise not to doubt my word?"

"Oh, certainly."

"Then, Miss Layton, I have kissed no lady for the space of five long years."

My cheeks were burning, and I arose and fled to my room.

"Mattie, you little goose, what are you blushing for? He doesn't mean you."

I said this over to myself, but somehow I doubted my own words.

Here Kate burst in upon me.

"Here you are, Puss. I have been out hunting for you. We have made up a party to ride out to the Shaker settlement, and take dinner and return by moonlight. Won't it be fun, and don't you want to go?"

"No, I guess I had rather stay at home and have a quiet day of it."

"What a little old maid it is! Well, his fame, and was spending months in it needn't go unless it wants to!" and painting little pictures about 12x18 she was off. I watched them drive off. Scarcely had I seated myself when some one entered the room, repeating those lines of Leigh Hunt's little ballad:

"Say I'm weary—say I'm sad,
Say that health and wealth have missed me;
Say I'm growing old, but add—
Jennie kissed me!"

My heart gave a great bound, for I recognized Guy Edgerton's voice.

Not knowing I was there, he came to the very window where I was sitting.

"Why, Mattie, you here! I thought you were out with the riding party. How cozy you look here. May I sit down beside you?"

"Yes, sir," I answered, frankly.

His dark eyes searched my face for some moment, then he said:

"I am going away to-morrow, little one; will you redeem your promise before I go? I have carried the kiss you gave me last through all my travels, and have brought it back to you pure as you gave it. I have kissed, keep him constantly afraid that you no woman all the five years. For, don't you know, Mattie, you made a conquest of me that night when you kissed me. I have loved you ever since and now, darling, if you give me my kiss of welcome, you must give yourself with it. Shall it be so, darling? Will you be my little wife?"

I knew then what he had been to me, and I acted my simple duty.

He kissed me, and I kissed him.

OLD AGE OF THE HORSE.

The Last Stage of His Career Doing Cab Duty at the Railroad Station.

"One of the never-failing causes of error in human judgment is the tendency to draw general conclusions from one's immediate and familiar environments," said Mr. Suburbanite reflectively, as he gazed out of the club window.

"That sounds dyspeptic," said Brown, "and I'm not surprised. This business of eating breakfast with a watch in front of you and then making a mile dash for the train is enough to undermine any constitution. You see spots before your eyes, don't you, and you feel—"

"Wrong again, Brown," interrupted Mr. Suburbanite. "My reflections on the probableness of human judgment to err were not prompted by dyspepsia, which I have not, but by horses."

"Which you have not, also," said Brown, "or your friends would venture to hunt you up."

"Just the ordinary horse of commerce," continued Suburbanite, "which draws a cab to-day, a street car to-morrow and then is relegated to a suburban livery stable from which it limps to expose its wretchedness whenever its services are needed. If a person should form his idea of a horse from the specimens that pass their declining years around the station at Suburbanville waiting for their drivers to pick up a stray fare, or in the livery stables of that town, he would be forced to the conclusion that the noble animal was characterized by an irregular gait and many ribs. It's a pleasure to sit here and watch well-fed cab horses on the avenue. When I first went up to Suburbanville to look the place over I was deeply shocked by the sight which greeted me at Mount Green, which was the first stop. Lined up alongside of the station, attached to public cabs, were a row of phantom horses such as I never had seen before. They were worse than the poor old animals which used to draw the Fifth avenue stages, and as I looked at them I expected to see them topple over like ninetails in a row. Two stations beyond was Suburbanville. I looked to see what the cab horses of Suburbanville were like and every one was blanketed. They stood nose on and the eyes of each horse were animated. Later I discovered why they were animated.

"Cab, sir?" shouted the eager drivers.

"I nodded. In a jiffy every blanket was whipped off and a score of skeleton horses were exposed. A nightmare resulting from a Welsh rarebit would be a thing of joy by comparison with Suburbanville's cab horses. This brigade of skeletons bore down on me in a rush and in desperation I selected one of them. By clever manipulation the driver pushed his horse alongside of the walk and I crawled into a covered carriage that might have been palmed off as Washington's coach at a D. A. R. picnic.

"My driver didn't use a whip on his horse. He carried a stout stick with which he would jab the horse, and the horse would make a jump ahead. Every jab was represented by a jump, and there was no jumps without jabs.

"How did it happen," said I to the driver, "that when I reached the walk every one of those cab horses was wide awake and a minute later they were all asleep?"

"The driver was so surprised that he stopped poking his horse and the horse came to a standstill at once.

"It's this way," said the driver, with a jab at the horse. "Just as the train comes in one of us goes down the line with a bag of oats from which we give each horse a whiff. That wakes 'em up for about two minutes. You see, most every one up here keeps his own horses, and it's hard on us cab-men. We don't make enough to buy oats for the horses all the time, so we make it up by letting them sleep. Mania here is asleep now."

A Commission He Did Not Get.

One of the good stories about the famous painter Meissonier, which is not repeated by his recent biographers, is in regard to his experience with a "new rich" gentleman who had erected a private theater at his chateau. Meissonier was just then at the height of his fame, and was spending months in it needn't go unless it wants to!" and painting little pictures about 12x18 she was off. I watched them drive off. Scarcely had I seated myself when some one entered the room, repeating those lines of Leigh Hunt's little ballad:

STORY OF A WAISTCOAT.

How Major Gordon Found It and the House Where He Lay When Wounded.

Major Eugene Gordon, of Athens, Ala., was probably the best pleased man of all the tens of thousands who celebrated Memorial day in Washington, D. C. Major Gordon had presented to him a waistcoat, covered with blood stains, which had been taken from his body when he was wounded high unto death thirty-four years ago.

The circumstances of the recovery revived a flood of tender recollections in the mind of the old Confederate veteran. He was entertained in the home to which he was taken to die in 1864 by the good woman who at that time, though a stranger, was ministering angel to his needs.

On Memorial day, while the graves of the thousands who died for the Union were being strewn with flowers, the Confederate Veterans' association and the Ladies' Southern Aid society assembled in Grace Church cemetery, in Woodside, to decorate the graves of seventeen unknown Confederate dead who lost their lives in Early's raid upon Washington, in 1864.

Major Eugene Gordon, who happened to be in Washington, went out to this particular place with the vague hope that he might possibly find the house or at least see the locality of his early experiences. Much inquiry among his older friends of war time failed to develop any tangible suggestion of the looked for home. After the services, he was invited, with Major Robert W. Hunter, of Washington, into the home of the Wilsons. Mrs. Laura A. Wilson and her charming daughters received them.

During the conversation Mrs. Wilson said to Major Gordon: "Were you not a Confederate officer and were you not wounded near here during the war?"

"Yes, madame," Major Gordon answered; "and I would give anything in the world to find the house to which I was taken."

"You are in that house now," exclaimed Mrs. Wilson. "Come into the dining room and I will show you where you lay."

"And I have got the vest that you left here at that time," Mrs. Wilson continued. "One of the pockets was shot out, half of the buttons were torn off, and it was soaked in blood. I washed out the bloodstains as well as I could and put it away. I have long wished that the soldier who wore it would come again to receive it. I was about to send it as a relic to the Confederate Abbey at Richmond."

Mrs. Wilson brought in the old waistcoat, and Major Gordon gave its history.

It was the rents in this old waistcoat—or rather the courage shown in getting into them—that caused the young lieutenant to be promoted to major. This office in the Confederate army he held before he was twenty years old. He is now an active business man, and he is as willing to fight for the Union as he was then to receive scars for the Confederacy.

The Coach Dog Again.

Those who keep a sharp eye upon the smart equipages at the summer resorts will see the revival of the fashion that held sway forty years ago. It was then the style to have "coach dogs" running with the horses, and the newest thing in driving is that the "coach dog" is to come in again.

How this animal, so fashionable in the days of the fifties and the early sixties, will harmonize with modern turnouts, harness and liveries cannot be told until he has become fairly a fixture of the road. But the "coach dog" will, undeniably, be picturesque. He is of a breed all his own, not attractive to the eye when alone, but a good bit of color when under the horses' heels.

Few of the present generation have seen a "coach dog," and therefore some slight description of his appearance and his duties will not be misplaced. In person the "coach dog" is slender and ugly fowled. He may or may not be of good size, but in any event he is strong, and his muscles are of steel. He is white, with black spots, and frequently a muzzle of black.

As an actual fact he is purely ornamental, but in theory he is intended as a protection for the horses, the carriage and its occupants. He originated in the days when there was always the possibility of footpads, and he was trained, in the event of a surprise, to spring at the robbers' throats. This his build well qualified him to do.

The "coach dog's" place on the road was under the horses' very heels, running rod for rod along with them, or else under the carriage itself. Never under any circumstances does a properly trained "coach dog" run at the side of the carriage or the horses. Yet, close as he is to the horses he never gets struck by their flying hoofs, nor does he ever seem in their way.

There is a curious companionship, indeed, between the horses and a dog of this sort, and a friendship between them is soon sealed.

Items of Interest.

A British antiquarian has discovered that Shakespeare was of Welsh descent.

Some scientists assert that the purest air in cities is found about twenty-five feet above the street surface.

The air is said to be so clear in Zululand that objects seven miles away can be distinctly seen by starlight.

Mucilage cannot dry up nor the brush become hard in a new bottle which has a rubber stopper. In the center of which the short brush handle is formed, the handle being adjusted by a screw socket as the mucilage is exhausted.

Imperial Dietary Rules.

The German Emperor ascribes his good health and vigor to the excellent advice given to him by his favorite doctor, and he has learned by heart the latter's "rule of life," which is as follows:—Eat fruit for breakfast. Eat fruit for lunch. Avoid pastry and hot cakes. Take potatoes only once a day. Do not take tea or coffee. Walk four miles every day, wet or fine. Take a bath every day. Wash the face every night in warm water. Sleep eight hours every night.

No Newspaper.

It is a breach of order for a member of the House of Commons to read a newspaper in the House. He may quote an extract from one in the course of a speech, but if he attempted to peruse it as he sat in his place, his ears would soon be assailed by a stern and reproving cry of "Order, order!" from the Chair. Some members resort to the deception practiced by the young lady who had "Vanity Fair" bound like a New Testament, and was observed reading it during service in St. Paul's Cathedral. Members often slip a newspaper or periodical into the "Orders of the Day," and read it while the Speaker imagines they are industriously studying the clause of a bill or its amendments.

The Inland Sea.

In the latter part of the Mesozoic age there was a great inland ocean, spreading over a large part of the present Continent. The lands then above water were covered with a flora peculiar to the times, and were inhabited by some of the animals which later distinguished the Cenozoic age. In the seas were reptiles, fishes, and turtles of gigantic proportions, armed for offence or defence. There were also ostrich-like bivalves, with enormous shells, 3 or 4 feet in diameter, the meat of which would have fed many people. In time this great ocean, swarming with vigorous life, disappeared. Mountain ranges and plains gradually arose, casting forth the waters, and leaving the monsters to die and bleach in tertiary suns. As the waters remaining divided into smaller tracts they gradually lost their saline stability. The stronger monsters gorged on the weaker tribes, until they, too, stranded on rising sand-bars, or lost vitality and perished as the waters freshened. In imagination we

THE HERALD.

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1899.

CYCLONE ON THE OUTSKIRTS.

A genuine west wind cyclone visited the vicinity of the Lafayette farm on the Lafayette road, on Wednesday afternoon, the 14th inst., and did considerable damage to small buildings, shade trees and crops. When the storm clouds gathered there was very little appearance of any wind, and in fact during the shower in this city there was hardly a breath stirring. But about two miles out on the Lafayette road a small, funnel-shaped cloud gathered in the sky and swooping down traveled in the direction of Rye leaving a path of ruin in its wake. Huge trees were torn up by the roots or snapped short off, bricks were hurled from chimneys, fences blown down and small buildings toppled over. It was exceedingly lucky that very few buildings were in the path of the cyclone or the damage would have been much greater. A portion of the barn on the Stoddard farm on Elwyn road was blown down but so far as could be learned this was the only large building damaged. Trees were what suffered most and it is a very easy matter to follow the path of the storm by the havoc done in the woods. No one has been reported as injured but perhaps today will tell a different tale. The cyclone passed in the direction of Rye Center but must have spent itself before reaching there.

WHERE IS BROWN?

Seabrook Tax Collector Reported Missing.

His Accounts Said To Be Badly Muddled.

Selectmen Bring Suit Against Him—Bondsmen's Property Attached.

Lincen L. Brown, the tax collector of Seabrook, is alleged to be short in his accounts with the town and Sheriff Pender of this city has placed an attachment on the property of his bondsmen.

Brown cannot be found. He has evidently made good his departure from Seabrook to avoid the effects of the storm that was about to break over his head. The officers have thus far been unable to locate him, but his apprehension is looked for before long.

This sensation was not entirely unexpected in Seabrook. It has been hinted for some time that Brown's accounts as collector were not as clear as they should have been. The figures upon which the trouble hinges run over the past three years.

Ever since last winter Portsmouth attorneys have made periodical trips to the little town near the state line, presumably on business connected with this entanglement. The difficulty was apparently too deep for Brown, for he cannot be found to face the music.

There are some in Seabrook, however, who assert that he has not fled but is waiting quietly out of sight for some satisfactory overtures for an adjustment of the twisted affairs. These friends say that he will appear in good time.

Brown's bondsmen are John W. Locke and Dr. Daniel W. Colcord, both well-to-do and respected citizens, who can probably make good any and all obligations which they may have incurred from Brown's mistakes.

It is understood that other papers are out against the delinquent collector. The suits are brought by the selectmen of Seabrook, who are determined that Brown, if he is really guilty of misappropriation, shall be brought to justice.

The discrepancy in the collector's accounts cannot be positively stated, but there is good reason for presuming that it is serious enough to warrant vigorous efforts to locate the missing man.

Seabrook is buzzing with gossip over the affair and all sorts of rumors are rife here.

Shortly after noon today, the Herald learned from a most reliable source that Brown was undoubtedly in hiding not far from Seabrook or possibly right in the town, and that he could be readily produced if the right terms of settlement should be offered by the selectmen.

It is believed that the tangle may be unsnarled very soon. The Seabrook authorities are represented by Portsmouth counsel.

IMPORTANT CHANGE AMONG NAVY YARD OFFICERS.

Pay Director Edward Bellows, U. S. N., relieved Pay Director H. M. Denniston, U. S. N., as general storekeeper at this navy yard at 11 o'clock today. Pay Director Denniston goes to the Navy Pay office, New York, which is one of the most desirable places in the navy. He has made hosts of friends in this city and no man has ever left the yard whom the people have had a higher regard for than Pay Director Denniston. With his wife, both had entered into local society and moved among a large circle of friends who will greatly miss them.

Another change was the reporting of Director George Cochran on the relief of Pay Inspector Joseph Foster, U. S. N., as pay officer of the yard. Pay Inspector Foster is a citizen of Portsmouth and he has been highly honored in being selected as fleet paymaster of the North Atlantic squadron, going on the dispatch New York. He will pass the summer along the New England coast and will be near home.

H. E. Menckler reported as chief clerk at the general store and Dr. F. M. Varrell and R. M. Tilton as pay clerks with Pay Director Cochran.

Dr. Varrell is one of the best known men in the navy and like his successor in the general store, Mr. Menckler, has seen many years of service.

J. E. Colcord, who has been at the navy yard office three years, and M. O. Larkin go with Pay Inspector Foster. Pay Clerk Colcord is a Portsmouth man and his friends will regret his leaving.

A Report That Norman Williams Was Nearing Death At Rye.

A report reached this city this afternoon about two o'clock that Norman Williams, the wealthy Chicagoan whose daughter wedded General Merritt, was dying at Little Bear's Head, where he and his family are occupying their summer villa. The report had somehow obtained credence in the office of one of the great Chicago dailies, which immediately sought Portsmouth for news bearing on the rumor.

The Herald telephoned to the Williams cottage at Rye, but could get no response. From the Farragut it was learned that Mr. Williams has been quite ill, but nothing was known of a turn for the worse. Instead, it was thought that he was improving.

The train due here from Boston at 5.15 p. m. was delayed about twenty-five minutes Wednesday afternoon.
